

FREEFALL NEWSLETTER: FEB 2006

Hello dear reader, it's time for another update!!! I have made a new years resolution to write more than two news letters this year (probably won't keep it haha!!) so here goes.

NEW VENUE!!!!

On the Friday 21st of April we will be making our debut at the Castlemayne pub in Basildon, It looks like quite a good venue as the music area is in a dedicated music area and not just squeezed into a bar area (but fear not, there is a well stocked Bar in the music area!!). So come down and cheer us along in a new setting, and also a thank you to the lovely Kelly for the booking (after numerous phone calls from myself haha!!)

We have also been managing to get back into the rehearsal studio's to get some new material into the set, so over the next few months there should be an injection of fresh songs for you to shake parts of your anatomy to (??). I am tempted to give away some of the new songs but I am afraid that the guys would kill me, so you will just have to come along and see for yourselves.

NEWS FLASH!!!

Now this one is a little special, Just after Xmas I was approached by a lady with a proposal (not that kind!!). This was to play as part of the backing group for one of the entrants for the Maltese Song for Europe. They would pay for flights, accommodation and car hire etc and all I had to do was play the guitar to a backing track (yes....I mean mime.....and the preliminary round to the Eurovision song contest.....oh the shame of it!!). Being a person of very high morals when it comes to playing live, I thought cool a weeks free holiday I can do that haha!!!

I then needed to find otherwise like minded persons to do the same, it wasn't hard. I managed to recruit the services of a certain Mr David Parks (the shortest member of the band) to also come along, as well as my brother, Richard to mime the drums and Mr Chris Warner to mime keyboards.

Now looking at the people going it could be a recipe for a new liver by the time we return, but it did state in the contract that we had to be sober and able to rehearse (?) twice before the show and on the night of the Maltese show. Grudgingly we have agreed to these term and conditions.

So we are going to be flying out to Malta to get drunk for the Maltese National Final on the 4th February so if you want to vote for us you can text or call on the evening. Details are on this link <http://www.maltasong.com/page.asp?p=8613&l=1>. The song is called "I Promise You" and details about the competition time etc are all here. I think it's going to be on Maltese TV so you may even be able to watch it for yourself on sky or the internet something, but if not don't worry. I will write some sort of report for you all possibly with some photos, as long as they aren't too incriminating haha!! and if you all vote for us and get us through, then maybe you will manage to win us another free holiday to Athens for the Eurovision final, what do you think??

WHAT DO YOU MEAN "NO WAY"
